DIRECTORS MESSAGE

“The festive season is finally here; therefore I would like to personally wish everyone a happy and safe festive celebrations and thank you all for your hard work and effort throughout 2011.

This year has undoubtedly been tough for all concerned, our customers have had to reign in their budgets, pay increase have been aligned to a very low of inflation and the business has been challenged to come up with innovative ways and means of reducing costs and increasing value. It is times such as these that will dictate the future shape of the business and I am confident that coming 2013, the Company will be in good shape.!”

Best Wishes... Jaz Sandhu (Managing Director)

FUTURE OF THE PRIVATE SECURITY INDUSTRY-PROPOSALS FOR CHANGE

The Home Office have launched proposals for a new regulatory regime for the UK's private security industry today.

The Home Office is seeking views on the Government's preferred option for reforming the regulation of the private security industry – a phased transition to a business regulation regime.

“The aim of the Government's recommended proposal is for more efficient and cost effective regulation, which continues to reduce criminality, protect the public and improve standards within the industry. They want to ensure that before committing to any action, they have listened to everyone's views, to ensure that they have identified all the relevant issues before committing to any action.

“This is why they have encouraged everyone who is involved in the private security industry, at whatever level, to take part in the consultation. “This is your industry and this is an opportunity for you to have a say on its future direction.”

Insider Tip of the Month- Understanding the ACPO policy (Policy Alarm Response)

The ACPO Policy on police on Police Response to security systems (April 2006) states that the police force will only attend monitored intruder alarms that 'confirm' alarm activations.

There are three levels of police Response:

LEVEL 1: All monitored intruder alarm systems are assigned a level one status when they are first installed

LEVEL 2: A level two police response means that the police will attend as soon as possible on the resources available to them at that time.

LEVEL 3: Police will not attend a level three unless a member of the public contacts them to say that they have witnessed a crime taking place. Systems will remain at level three status until they have been free from false call-outs for a period of over three months and only after they have been upgraded to meet the latest police requirements. Even after response has been re-instated, it will only be to confirm activations.

The level of response may affect your insurance cover

Key Holders

Police policy requires that you have at least two key holders who:

- Are trained to operate the intruder alarm system
- Are telephone subscribers
- Have adequate means to attend the premises at all hours
- Have access to all relevant parts of the premises
- Can attend within 20 minutes of receiving the initial alarm activation

Persistent failure to attend within 20 minutes can lead to withdraw of police response

Police will not attend a level three unless a member of the public contacts them to say that they have witnessed a crime taking place
